The meeting was called to order by Dean Desiderio; minutes of the meeting of February 2, 1981, were approved.

Professor Ray Radosevich of the Anderson School of Management spoke regarding the establishing of a statewide technological innovation center. If the venture is successful in getting started, the help of the law school will be needed in such fields as contracts and patent law.

Former student Alexander King appeared before the faculty in an effort to gain readmittance. A motion permitting Mr. King to return as a first-year student carried.

Also, a petition of Ruben Cortez to remain in law school was approved.

George Chavez's petition to remain in law school was approved, subject to the terms of his petition in following a remedial program supervised by faculty members.

Faculty approved bestowal of the degree with honors, magna cum laude, on John Cassell.

Torrence (Todd) Harrison was certified as having completed all requirements for graduation; he can be so certified to the Board of Bar Examiners.

Discussion of hiring matters was postponed until later in the week.

Meeting adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,

Louise R. Camp
