Minutes of the March 18, 1985 meeting were accepted as written.

Professor Kovnat, Chair of the Faculty Curriculum Committee, continued her presentation on that part of the committee's report (concerning Constitutional Law) postponed from consideration at the last meeting. The faculty voted un~~u~~nanimously to accept the Committee recommendation that Constitutional Law become a required first semester, second year course.

The faculty voted un~~u~~nanimously to accept the second and third year curriculum outlined in the attachments to Professor Kovnat's April 5 memorandum, subject: "Proposed 1985-86 Curriculum". Professor Kovnat informed the faculty that the Committee was also preparing a very tentative list of prospective course offerings for 1986-87 which will not include specific faculty teaching assignments.

A question was raised concerning which first year course the students enrolled in Programmed Studies would be exempted from under the first year curriculum approved at the March 18 meeting.
